

DROWNED IN LAKE MICHIGAN

Two Sailors Go Down With Fishing Tug Off Waukegan Tuesday.

FOUR ESCAPE ON LIFE RAFT

Heavy Seas Sweep the Tug Into Slush Ice—Engineer Washed Overboard Into the Deluge

Half a mile off the Waukegan shore, staggering under mountainous seas that beat against her and tore off her cabin, the fishing tug Anspach sank off the foot of Water street Tuesday night at about 8:30 and carried two to their death while four, including Captain Rubier, crawled to the beach on their hands and knees and later fainted from the exposure.

The Anspach sank off the foot of Water street, two blocks from the south pier and a half mile out on the ice fields.

Going out in the morning to lift the fishing nets and load the catch aboard, she started on the ill-fated return trip at 3:30 in the afternoon. The snow was falling so thickly that the sky was obscured and sight ahead was impossible for more than a half block.

She beat about Waukegan harbor trying to make it in vain, missing it in the storm and passing it by after running north and returning three distinct times.

Later she came near the end of the south pier and her captain ordered his men to throw a line in hope of catching a mooring. The rope was thrown and was caught by Frank Ustet, in charge of the light house station.

However, the heavy northeast current and undertow caught the gallant little vessel and she nearly rode Ustet from the end of the pier.

"Let go," shouted Captain Rubier to the lighthouse keeper, and he released the rope while the Anspach swept on to her doom.

The Elsie Nell stemmed out to rescue the crew from the doomed vessel, but could not even sight her, such was the fury of the storm which with unparalleled violence piled up the waves and sent them in dizzying violence and speed against the shore line, high as the top of the south pier and with the strength of an hundred giants in mortal combat.

The Nell had to turn back and made the Waukegan harbor after a strenuous passage through the ice, the waves buffeting her most against and as high as the south pier, while the ice packed rapidly before her stern.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: George H. James, Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Pagels, Mr. Smallwood, and Ray James of Milwaukee. Geo. Le Roy and wife, Mrs. McGowan and son John, of Chicago. Wm. R. James and wife, Joseph A. James and wife, Ina James, William Campbell and wife, Robert Esh and wife, Jesse Richardson and wife, Joseph Richardson, George Osmond, Wm. Overton and wife, Lynn and Wayne Overton Reed Carr and wife, all of McHenry county.

The remains were laid at rest in the family lot in the cemetery at English Prairie.

FOUR HUNDRED PASSENGERS ARE SNOW BOUND

Between 300 and 400 people were stalled on Wisconsin Central trains from Rockfeller to Grayslake, there was another colony at Hendee's platform, a milk station, and Wednesday afternoon the Libertyville branch of the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric suspended because of snow drifts.

The 8:06 train leaving Antioch Tuesday night was stalled at Hendee platform till Thursday morning, and there being no train on the passengers were compelled to stay at nearby farm houses to get refreshment.

Source of the trouble was a snow drift near Hendee Crossing, which was to an immense depth and absolutely impassable, making much of the men were at the crossing.

While Capt. Walker has not the street and number of the Greenhalghs, he has located them by careful inquiry as being settled in or near Milwaukee. Allis or South Milwaukee is believed to be their city and location is definite enough so that they can be reached at any time and they will appear against Mitchell which will come in March.

DEATH OF J. C. JAMES, SR.

Which Occurred At His Home on Saturday After An Illness of Many Months

On Saturday forenoon at about 11:30 o'clock occurred the death of Joseph C. James, Sr., one of Antioch's oldest and best known citizens.

He had been in failing health for more than a year, at times being confined to his bed and then again improving until he was able to be out. But during the past few months he has been unable to leave the house and most of that time has been confined to his bed. His death was not unexpected as it had been plainly evident to his family and friends for some time that he was steadily failing and the end was rapidly drawing near, and on Saturday, February 15, he passed away at the advanced age of 81 years, 10 months and 13 days. Heart trouble coupled with the general breaking down of advanced age was the cause of his death.

Joseph C. James was born at London, England, on the twenty-ninth day of April, 1826. When about nine years of age, he came with his parents to America, and for a time settled in the state of New York. There they remained only about a year and in 1836 moved to Milwaukee, Wis., where he resided with his parents until 1844 when he went to English Prairie, McHenry county, Illinois.

When a young man of twenty-four years he in company with three others went overland to California, where they remained for two years.

In the year of 1852 he returned to English Prairie and was united in marriage to Miss Martha Bowden.

He purchased the first 160 acres of land sold in section 16, township of Antioch, the same year, and on that farm, they resided until twenty-one years ago when they moved to the village of Antioch where they have lived every since. To this union nine children were born, six of whom died in infancy.

He was a member of the Episcopal church, having united with the church at Wilmet, Wis., in the year of 1871.

At the time of his death he was a member of Lake lodge I. O. O. F. of Antioch and at one time held a membership in the Rebekah lodge.

He was the second of a family of nine children and is survived by only two, a brother, George H. James of Milwaukee, and one sister, Mrs. Hannah LeRoy, of Chicago.

Of his immediate family he leaves to mourn his loss a devoted wife and three children, two sons, William R. James, of Spring Grove, and J. C. James, Jr., of Antioch, and one daughter, Mrs. Ida Osmond, also of this place, besides grandchildren and great grandchildren, and a large circle of friends and acquaintances who will greatly miss his familiar presence from our midst.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock at the M. E. church, with Rev. McNamer officiating and the Odd Fellows having charge of the services.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful and showed in evidence a circle in which the departed was loved.

From the family, a wreath from Lake lodge I. O. O. F., a bouquet from the Woodmen, a bouquet from the Rebekah lodge, a bouquet from the Eastern Star, and several bouquets from relatives and friends.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: George H. James, Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Pagels, Mr. Smallwood, and Ray James of Milwaukee. Geo. Le Roy and wife, Mrs. McGowan and son John, of Chicago. Wm. R. James and wife, Joseph A. James and wife, Ina James, William Campbell and wife, Robert Esh and wife, Jesse Richardson and wife, Joseph Richardson, George Osmond, Wm. Overton and wife, Lynn and Wayne Overton Reed Carr and wife, all of McHenry county.

The remains were laid at rest in the family lot in the cemetery at English Prairie.

GREENHALGHs FOUND NEAR MILWAUKEE

The announcement that the Greenhalghs had disappeared from Zion City and that there was therefore more than a slim chance for Harold Mitchell to gain his freedom had barely been made than Capt. Walker of the Zion City police force got busy and now comes the news that he has located the missing witnesses.

This will come as a revelation, as when the Greenhalghs disappeared no one ever expected to hear from them again, so complete was their vanishment.

They were not under arrest or even under surveillance and no power except a warrant could have stopped them.

While Capt. Walker has not the street and number of the Greenhalghs, he has located them by careful inquiry as being settled in or near Milwaukee. Allis or South Milwaukee is believed to be their city and location is definite enough so that they can be reached at any time and they will appear against Mitchell which will come in March.

FARMERS DERIVE BENEFIT

The Farmer Profits More by Good Roads Than Any Other Class of Citizens

FACTS GIVEN BY H. H. GROSS

Special Agent U. S. Department of Agriculture and Secretary of Farmers' Good Roads League

There is no class of citizens that will profit so much by good roads as the farmer. No other will get so much out of them. Everything raised and sold must pass over the country roads to the market. Good roads make this delivery easier and less expensive, and the delivery can be made at the farmer's pleasure. He does not have to take the road conditions into account where a stone or gravel road exists; this is as good in wet weather as in dry.

It is an economic advantage, as well as a pleasure, to live upon a modern, up-to-date road. When a man buys a farm, if he is progressive—that is if he is a good farmer—he at once begins to improve that farm. He fences it, if necessary; he builds fences, plants an orchard and shrubbery; builds or extends the barns; and is constantly alert to improve and add to the value of his farm.

It is often found that for every two dollars that is expended, three dollars will be added to the actual selling value of the premises. It pays to improve farms to the highest standard of convenience and productivity. Time and again has a wide-awake man bought a farm at a cost of say $5,000 and by expending $2,000 upon it, made it readily salable for $9,000 or $10,000. In fact, the money put into the improvements will pay a much larger return than the natural advance upon the farm lands without these improvements.

No money expended will add more surely or largely to the value of farm lands than the amount expended upon intelligent permanent improvements of highways. The experience everywhere is and always has been, and will always be, that for every dollar wisely expended upon building permanent stone or gravel roads, from three to five dollars is at once added to the cash value of the farms served by them. If there were no other reason for building hard roads than this one, it should be regarded as sufficient.

It should be kept in mind that the highways are public property and that at least a portion of the cost of building and maintaining roads should be a charge upon all property of the state, instead of placing the burden upon the respective townships or road districts of the state.

The equitable plan of road building is state aid. This has been adopted by nearly all the eastern states and has proven a great relief to the farmers, and under it road building has progressed by leaps and bounds. After forty years of building roads by local taxation, Ohio has just adopted state aid. This means more roads and less taxes.

Appreciation of Genius.

It was a genius who said: "Only genius can recognize genius." The multitude, or generality of "lookers-on" may enjoy, admire, appraise or applaud—but only the few inflated can truly appreciate the worth of a great artistic production. For it is one thing to enjoy, another to appreciate a work of art whether historic, pictorial, musical or literary.

FARMER FOUND DEAD

Matthew Cunningham of Burlington, Found Dead at His Barn Door

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

With One Foot Caught in Wheel of Road Cart, He Had Been Dragged For Over a Mile

Matthew Cunningham, a prominent young farmer residing three miles east of Burlington, was found dead at the door of his barn early Sunday morning by his brother, Gus Cunningham, who had gone out to attend to the morning chores.

The dead man was lying beside a road cart in which he had driven to Burlington on Saturday afternoon, and one of his feet was entangled in its wheel, while the body bore all indications of having been dragged to death. The horse and rig were standing unhitched in front of the barn door, the animal having evidently run home and stopped only upon having reached its destination and finding the barn door closed.

Cunningham had been to Burlington Saturday evening and had not returned home at night, but no apprehension for his safety was felt until his dead body was found by his brother early Sunday morning.

An investigation was immediately started and on the road midway between Cunningham's home and Burlington was found his pocketbook, hat and some scattered coins, besides several other trinkets, and from this point to the barn his death route could be easily traced by blood stains and pieces of clothing which had been torn from his body. Further investigation showed that he was last seen in Burlington at 11:30 o'clock Saturday evening, at which time he hitched up and started for his home.

Friends who bade him good night swear that he was perfectly sober, and because of this deep mystery surrounds the manner in which he fell or was knocked from his road cart and dragged to death.

The only explanation that has been arrived at is that striking something in the road Cunningham was thrown from his cart and becoming entangled in its wheel was dragged to death by the frightened horse.

After an examination of the body by the Drs. Newell who stated that the man had been dead several hours when found, a jury was empaneled who came to the conclusion that the man's death was accidental and caused substantially as related in the foregoing.

Mr. Cunningham was forty years of age and a bachelor, unking his home with his aged mother, Mrs. Ellen Cunningham, on the farm near Burlington.

CUT HIS THROAT WITH A PIECE OF GLASS

Fred Slocum, who was brought to the Northern Illinois Insane Asylum at Elgin recently from Woodstock, suffering from melancholia, committed suicide early Friday by cutting his throat with a piece of glass.

Slocum had just been taken to the south infirmary for treatment. Cunniffy awaiting his opportunity during the temporary absence of the attendant, the inmate sprang to a window, smashed the pane and slashed his throat from ear to ear with pieces of glass.

MRS. GRICE PASSES AWAY

On Thursday Morning, at the Home of her Daughter, Mrs. Wm. Bryant.

Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock occurred the death of Mrs. Mary Grice, a well-known resident of this village, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Bryant, at Bristol.

Mrs. Grice had been in failing health for over a year, Bright's disease being the cause of her death, and for the past three months has been confined to her bed. Over a month ago she was removed from her home at this place to the home of her daughter where she remained to the end. Her death had been hourly expected since Monday morning when she sank into a stupor from which she never rallied.

Mary Louise Gephart was born at Miami, Ohio, on Nov. 21, 1835, and died Feb. 20, 1908. She was united in marriage to Stephen A. Grice in December of 1853, and came to Antioch in February, 1869, where her home has been ever since.

To this union eight children were born, four daughters, Mrs. Clara Belle Nolan, of Huntington, Indiana, Mrs. Frank Weigle, of Ripon, Wis., Mrs. Louisa Bryant, of Bristol, Wis., and Mrs. Sarah Billett, of Antioch, who preceded her mother to the land of rest only a few months ago. And four sons, George G. of Aurora, Robert S. of North Chicago, L. B. of Antioch, and Wilber H., who died in infancy.

Mrs. Grice leaves to mourn her loss six children, a number of grandchildren and a large number of friends and acquaintances. The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon with burial in the Hillside cemetery.

EX-SENATOR COON DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART FAILURE

Ex-state Senator Reuben W. Coon, lawyer, editor, politician and man of public affairs, died very suddenly at 1:30 Tuesday morning of heart trouble.

Having spent the day in Chicago, he did not get home to his residence at 405 West street, Waukegan, until 7 Tuesday evening. Heart failure seized him during the night. The heart weakened rapidly and before a physician arrived on summons he was dead.

His experience as a newspaper owner and editor is interesting, valuable and even historic in northern Illinois. In 1868 he purchased a half interest in the Pana Gazette. Later he purchased outright the Belvidere Northwestern, since merged with the Belvidere Republican, Frank Moran's paper. From 1880 to 1884 he served as state's attorney for Boone county.

It was in 1885 that he came to Waukegan and purchased the Waukegan Weekly Gazette, still in existence. In 1889 he established the Highland Park Gazette.

Later he sold these properties, having served a term as state senator, and during his last years practiced at the bar.

Reuben W. Coon was born at Franklin, Clinton county, Ind., March 31, 1842. He was the son of Rev. R. R. and Emeline McCowen Coon, the father being of New Jersey, the mother of Ohio.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 from the residence, Interment at Oakwood.

The survivors are the widow and Mrs. Emily Coon Mason, wife of Attorney Louis F. Mason; Mrs. Edith Coon Kucker, Miss Blanche Coon and Miss Lucile Coon.

ONE KILLED ONE INJURED AT RONDOUT

The fast Janesville train on the St. Paul ran down and killed one man and seriously injured another at Rondout Thursday night.

William Clay, a man about sixty years old whose place of residence is not known, was the man killed, and Charles Herman, fifty-two years of age, a single man whose home is in Chicago, is the injured one.

Herman and Clay are laborers who had been employed cutting ice at the Knickerbocker ice house at Fox Lake and were returning to Chicago at the close of the ice cutting season.

Awaiting a Chicago train at Rondout they got in the way of the Janesville flyer and were ground under its wheels.

Clay was killed instantly and Herman had his foot cut off above the ankle. The injured man was removed to the office of Dr. J. L. Taylor at Libertyville, and was later taken to the County farm infirmary.

The two men were broke and were hiding behind a coal shed at Rondout, waiting to catch a freight train in from the north. The fast Janesville train came north from the south and as the two came out from behind the coal shed they had to cross in front of the passenger train with the above result. They were not drunk.

On Monday about noon Herman passed away at the county farm, the cause of his death is said to have been pneumonia, with which he is supposed to have been suffering before the accident. The jury selected to determine the cause of Clay's death arrived at the verdict late Saturday evening and they claim that the death was accidental and lay the blame on no one.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT HIGHWOOD

Thought That Tramps Started Fire in Big House and Were Caught in Trap

OLD LANDMARK BURNED

The Building Had Been Unoccupied for Months—One Fireman Dies as Result of Hard Work at Fire

Fire of mysterious origin, starting in the garret of the old Whalen place at Highwood Sunday night at 10:30 o'clock, destroyed one of the oldest landmarks in the county. The old mansion was built thirty years ago and at that time was one of the finest residences in the state. Of late years it has been practically deserted and has gradually gone to ruin. Tramps are thought to have been the cause.

As everyone in that part of the county knows, the Old Whalen Place in the large house just east of the Chicago & Milwaukee electric car barns. It has stood there for a score and a half years, and was recently purchased by the United States government in a tract of ninety-six acres which is to be used for reservation purposes.

For many years the old place had remained tenanted until a short time ago when a man by the name of Whalen moved into the place. It was thought very strange at the time as the house was a mammoth affair, having between fifteen and twenty rooms. Mr. Whalen always lived there alone.

Five or six months ago, however, he moved from Highwood to Libertyville where he is living at the present time.

Since his departure from the house, the ruin has been most complete. The windows have been shattered and the appearance of the house has been one of great forlornness. It is said that since the place was deserted that the upper floors have been infested with tramps who found it a more comfortable place to sleep in than crowding into some barn.

The fact that the fire started on the upper floor, when there could have been nothing to start it than the carelessness of some tramp, coupled with other facts, led many to say that perhaps some of them had been burned.

Those who were on the scene after the fire had gained quite a headway, claimed that they thought they saw faces peering from the upper windows and that they naturally wondered if the owners had been able to escape or whether they had been penned in like rats in a trap.

The Highwood fire department arrived on the scene soon after but at once saw that alone they would not be able to cope with the flames and assistance was requested of the Fort Sheridan fire department which was not slow to respond. Both companies fought the flames and soon had the satisfaction of seeing that their efforts were being rewarded, for although it was too late to stop the destruction of the interior which was gutted, the outside walls were left standing which was perhaps all that prevented a much more serious fire in the little village.

Andrew Hoberg, a fireman on the Highwood fire department, paid his life as the result of his hard work on the fire. After the fire was out, the firemen went to the department house where Hoberg told the firemen that he was tired and would lie down and rest a while.

A short time afterwards he was found dead by friends. It is believed that heart trouble together with the excitement and smoke at the fire caused his death. He was 47 years of age and leaves a family.

FORGER WILL BE BROUGHT TO UNITED STATES

Deputy United States Marshal W. H. Wilmet of Waukegan left Monday evening to bring back to United States territory Captain Keller, who is under arrest at a small village in British Columbia, charged with having stolen checks from the paymaster's office of the army at Fort Sheridan and cashed them after filling them out.

Keller was captured in a little out-of-the-way place in the wilds and at first declared that he was not the man sought, a victim of mistaken identity.

The authorities have now arranged for extradition from Canadian soil and Marshal Wilmet has been chosen to bring Keller back.

THE AMERICAN NAVY

ADMIRAL CONVERSE DEFENDS IT AGAINST CRITICISMS.

REPORT IS MADE PUBLIC

Kentucky and Kearsarge Admittedly Out of Date, But Other Battleships Equal Best of Other Nations.

Washington. — By direction of the president, Secretary Metcalf has made public the report of Admiral Converse on the fighting ships of the American navy, called forth by many criticisms recently published in magazines and otherwise. This report was prepared primarily to satisfy the president as to the exact state of our naval ships compared with those of other navies and its publication is authorized with the design to reassure the American sailors as to the quality of the weapons with which they must go into battle.

Admiral Converse characterizes the criticisms as "prepared by persons whose knowledge of the subjects discussed was limited and incorrect." There was, he says, ample justification for the adoption of the battleship designs which have been followed. "It is not claimed that mistakes have not been made," he adds, "or that our ships are without faults; but in view of the then state of the art of battleship building, this fact is not to be wondered at. It is remarkable that the mistakes were so few and that none were really serious. In this respect our record will compare favorably with that of foreign services."

In the 91 pages which the admiral devotes to the defense of the navy, the subjects dealt with include battle drills, free board of American ships, heights of gun positions, torpedo defense guns, battleship armor, turret designs, ammunition hoists, in and out turning screws, Kearsarge and Kentucky, and general notes. His emphatic conclusion is: "Our ships are not inferior to those in foreign services."

Each Better Than Predecessors. "We have," he says, "made compromises in our designs of battleships, because it is impossible to construct a perfect battleship; such compromises have, perhaps, detracted from the desired perfect ship in some respects, but at the same time have made it possible to improve upon some other existing disadvantage, and, on the whole, the compromises, each and all, have tended towards a nearer approach to the desired perfect finality. "In making compromises in the building of our ships, I am satisfied that in every instance all concerned in the work have acted honestly and patriotically and only with the desire to produce the best ship possible. The result has been in each case, ship by ship, and year by year, an improvement upon all that have preceded, and no ship has been built by us inferior to those of any nation designed at the same time."

Inferior Only in Numbers. "The quality of the material of our navy is inferior to none; in quantity of vessels alone we lack. With an increase in number of ships, the American navy will have been supplied the only feature necessary to make it second to none in all that tends toward fighting efficiency, and when the stress of actual combat, if such should ever unfortunately come, brings the only really practical test, our country need have no misgivings or fear but that our battleships will give an excellent account of themselves and prove themselves all that we have designed them for and know them to be."

Considerable space is devoted to a refutation of the criticism that American fighting ships do not set as high out of the water as those of foreign navies. It is admitted by the admiral that the Indiana and Kearsarge classes (the first battleships of the navy) are too low forward for efficient fighting at sea in fairly heavy weather, "but the remainder of our battleships could without doubt give a good account of themselves in a fight at sea in any weather in which it is at all likely for a fleet to engage."

Attention is called to four of the Russian battleships which were captured or sunk in the battle of the Sea of Japan, all of which rose 27 feet out of the water—higher than any of our ships. The question presents the choice of being well armed and consequently weighted lower in the water, and being lightly armed and settling high out. It is stated to be the policy of the American navy "to always have our vessels armed better than our opponents."

As to the height of gun position, it is stated, that with the exception of the Indiana and Kearsarge classes our ships carry their forward turret guns generally higher than similar ships of the British and Japanese navies, "and in the heights above water of guns firing on the broadside were noticeably in the lead."

Torpedo Boats Ahead of Schedule. Washington. — The navy department was officially advised Sunday of the arrival Saturday of the American torpedo boat flotilla at Talcahuano, Chile, four days ahead of the schedule. It will stay there five or six days before sailing for Callao.

Oklahoma Solid for Bryan. Guthrie, Okla. — In the Democratic primaries held Saturday to elect delegates to the state convention W. J. Bryan was endorsed by every one of the 75 counties in the state.

SOLDIERS SENT TO ALASKA

TROOPS TO QUELL STRIKE RIOTS IN FAIRBANKS.

Riotous Crowds Congregate on the Streets and Capture Nonunion Men as They Arrive.

Washington. — By direction of the president, Acting Secretary Oliver Thursday ordered a company of infantry from Fort Gibbon, in Alaska, to Fairbanks, in that territory, to preserve order during the mining strike in that section. This action was taken upon representation from the United States court in Alaska to the attorney general that the presence of federal troops was needed.

Telegrams from Fairbanks to the attorney general claim that open air mass meetings are being held by the striking miners and that threats of violence have been made. The marshal has been directed by the attorney general to use all the force at his command to arrest law-breakers and to prevent intimidation. The military is expected to give the marshal moral support and also to take action should the disorder prove too great for any force he may be able to secure.

The distance from Fort Gibbon to Fairbanks is 155 miles and the troops will be carried by sleds over that route, which is said to be a very good one. If there is urgent necessity for the presence of the soldiers at Fairbanks they can get there in four or five days, but under ordinary conditions the trip takes six or seven days. Fairbanks is in the center of a mining country with a population of 7,000 or 8,000.

Persons in Washington familiar with the conditions existing at Fairbanks say the trouble is the outcome of a strike a year or more ago for higher wages and shorter hours for the miners.

Fairbanks, Alaska. — United States Marshal Perry has sworn in 250 special deputies for the protection of life and property against riotous mobs of strikers who are congregated on the streets. These mobs have been attempting to capture recent arrivals here with a view to deporting them. The marshal's force has dispersed the rioters and guarantees protection to all men in camp. All saloons are closed.

OUTRAGE BY NIGHT RIDERS.

Ten Men in Eddyville, Ky., Whipped by Band of Three Hundred.

Eddyville, Ky. — Night riders 300 strong visited Eddyville at one o'clock Sunday morning and whipped ten men, four of them white and six negroes. The white men are Police Judge C. W. Rucker, Lesel Woods, former city marshal; Press Fralick, who occasionally acted as deputy city marshal, and Grace Robertson, a saloon porter. The connection between the whipping of the men and the tobacco war in western Kentucky is not apparent. The riders were well drilled and well armed. Over a thousand shots were fired during the course of their stay, but the only casualty reported is that of a young woman whose face is said to have been grazed by a stray bullet.

NEW AMERICAN SKI RECORD.

John E. Venson Jumps 116 Feet at Close of Duluth Tourney.

Duluth, Minn. — Following a day's postponement on account of soft weather, the fourth annual tournament of the National Ski Association of America was wound up here Thursday afternoon on Chester Creek Hill. The large crowd that had gathered with the expectation of seeing a new American record established, was getting ready to return home disappointed, when John Wannob, a director of the local club, hung up a special prize for the rider that could beat 110 feet. A number of them tried it, but all fell short. Then John E. Venson came tearing down the mammoth slide, shot through the air and landed 116 feet away from the scaffold.

THE WALL FLOWER

ARREST MORSE ON STEAMER

WARRANT SERVED ON FINANCIER AT QUARANTINE.

Asserts His Innocence and Declares Trip to Europe Was Not a "Flight" from Creditors.

New York. — Charles W. Morse, financier and promoter of many large combinations, including the so-called "ice trust" and a merger of nearly all of the coastwise steamship lines, returned Sunday from his brief trip to Europe, was arrested in his stateroom when the steamer Etruria reached quarantine in the lower bay, held in custody until the ship was docked and then was whisked away in an automobile to the home of Justice Victor Dowling of the supreme court, where he gave bonds in the sum of $20,000 to answer to two indictments charging grand larceny and involving the sum of $100,000.

Mr. Morse was released and went immediately to his Fifth avenue home, where he gave out a statement asserting his innocence and asking the public to suspend judgment until he has had the opportunity of facing his accusers in court.

Monday Mr. Morse will appear before Justice Dowling in open court and plead not guilty to the indictments. He denied that his trip to Europe was a "flight." He said he had gone abroad to sell stock in a large interest and to secure a fortnight's rest. Both purposes were spoiled by the publication of reports that he was a fugitive from justice, he declared.

Mr. Morse had received word by wireless telegraph that two indictments had been found against him, but he did not know he was to suffer physical arrest. The appearance of three detectives from District Attorney Jerome's office at his stateroom door took him completely by surprise. The officers, armed with a warrant, had gone down the bay on a revenue cut. They were accompanied by Albert B. Boardman and Phillip J. Britt, attorneys, and by Benjamin W. Morse, a son of the financier. Mrs. Morse met her husband at the pier and it was in her automobile that the journey with one of the detectives was made to Justice Dowling's house.

Union Laborers Indicted.

New Orleans. — Seventy-two men, representatives of all the classes of labor employed on the New Orleans river front, and who compose a union known as the Dock and Cotton council, were indicted by the United States grand jury Friday on the charge of conspiring to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The indictments followed the refusal of the Dock and Cotton council to permit the Coal Wheelers' union to coal the steamer Habibi, which cleared here several days ago for Puerto Cortez.

Cervera's Rescuer Dies.

Boston. — George H. Norman, of Brookline and Newport, prominent in society and as a polo player, who distinguished himself especially when, as an officer on the gunboat Gloucester during the Spanish-American war, he took Admiral Cervera of the Spanish fleet off the burning flagship Infanta Maria Teresa, died Thursday night at the Corey Hill hospital, in Brookline. Mr. Norman went to the hospital two weeks ago to undergo an operation. He was operated upon twice, after which pneumonia developed.

CHILEANS GREET THE FLEET.

American Battleships Reviewed in Bay of Valparaiso.

Valparaiso, Chile. — The great American fleet of 16 battleships, under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, passed Valparaiso Friday afternoon and continued on its voyage northward for Callao, Peru, the next stopping place.

All Valparaiso and thousands of persons from other cities in Chile witnessed the passing of the fleet. President Montt and the other high officials of the republic went out from shore to greet the battleships, and almost the entire Chilean navy exchanged salutes with them as they swung around Curauilla Point and into Valparaiso bay in single file, headed by the Chilean cruiser Chacabuco and five Chilean torpedo boat destroyers. The day was perfect and the spectacle of the fleet stretched in a great semicircle as seen from the high hills around the bay was magnificent.

President Montt and other Chilean officials embarked on the training ship Gen. Baquedano and took a position well out in the harbor. Around the Baquedano the vessels swung at a speed of four knots, firing the presidential salute as they passed in review. It was one hour from the time the head of the fleet entered the bay until the last vessel had passed the president's ship and turned toward the open sea. Then the Baquedano lifted anchor and escorted the fleet well out of the bay and on its way to the north. It was a view such as has never before been seen in Valparaiso bay, and one that will long be remembered by the people of Chile who came miles to see it.

TWO JUMP INTO SEA AND DIE.

One Suicide Thought to Be Son of Minnesota Congressman.

Newport, R. I. — Two men, one in the uniform of the United States Marine corps and the other in citizen's clothes, jumped overboard from the tug R. Wood while on the way from Newport to Fort Greble Sunday, and were drowned.

Although the bodies have not been recovered and no positive identification has been made, the man in uniform is thought to have been Private Benjamin G. Steenerson, a son of Congressman Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota. The other man is believed to have been John M. McIntosh, a marine, who was awaiting discharge from the service. According to Capt. Rich of the tug, the men showed nothing unusual in their conduct until the tug was off Canaan Point, when both men jumped overboard without warning. Private Steenerson enlisted October 24, 1907, at East Grand Forks, Minn.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. I.

Dr. Hartman is now offering Peruna to the public as a regular pharmaceutical product. It is just as ethical as any compound put up for the medical profession. No straining of medical ethics can find any fault with it. THE PRINCIPAL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS are prominently incorporated in the label on the bottle, that the people may know that the claims made for Peruna have a true justification.

The only departure we shall make from medical ethics in the conduct of Peruna affairs in the future, is the fact that we shall continue to advertise and sell our product TO THE PEOPLE.

If we would agree to sell to doctors only, to advertise for doctors only, then the medical fraternity would be obliged to recognize Peruna as being entirely within their approval.

BUT WE SHALL NOT DO THIS.

We shall continue to offer Peruna to the people. We shall continue to convey to the people our claims for Peruna as a household remedy. We shall continue to supply the people with free literature, teaching them how to use our medicine, teaching them how to avoid disease, teaching them many things of benefit to the home. We shall continue to do this, whether the medical profession like it or not.

We are proposing from this time on to take the public into our confidence. Notwithstanding that some imitators and substitutes will be attempting to put up something which they consider just as good as Peruna, we are going to draw aside the veil of secrecy and allow any one who chooses to know exactly OF WHAT PERUNA IS COMPOSED.

This ought to disarm all honest criticism. We expect, however, that criticism will continue. On some pretext or other, those who are envious of the success of Peruna will continue to find fault. But we are determined to give such people no just complaint. PERUNA IS A GREAT MEDICINE.

It has become a household word in millions of homes. Our faith in the remedy is stronger than ever. Every year we expect to establish new plants in foreign lands until the people of all the world are supplied with this valuable household remedy.

WE CLAIM PERUNA TO BE A CATARRH REMEDY. Buy a bottle and try it. If it helps you, be honest and acknowledge that it has helped you.

If you want us to we will publish your statement exactly as you furnish it to us. We will add no words, take away no words. If you wish us to we will publish your portrait in connection with it. We will not do this without your written request, without your entire consent.

Peruna has cured thousands of people of chronic catarrh, in many phases and locations. At least, that is what the people say to us, through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna will cure many thousand more, in spite of fabricated slanders to the contrary.

WE GUARANTEE EVERY BOTTLE OF PERUNA TO CONTAIN THE INGREDIENTS PRINTED ON THE LABEL.

We guarantee that every testimonial we use is absolutely true—in the exact language of the testifier.

We guarantee that every photograph published is the photograph of the person whose name it bears, that every word of every testimonial was authorized by the hand that signed it.

We are determined to beat our opponents by being fairer than they are, by dealing squarer than they dare to. We are determined to meet falsehood with truth, duplicity with candor, insincerity with sincerity.

We know that the users of Peruna will appreciate our stand. We believe that the dealers in Peruna will applaud our course. We expect even our opponents will be obliged to acknowledge finally that Peruna is not only an honest and useful remedy, but one of the GREATEST HOUSEHOLD MEDICINES ON THE CONTINENT.

Trustees Have Undertaken Task with Indications of Success.

Galesburg.—Great enthusiasm was aroused at the banquet commemorating the seventy-first anniversary of the founding of Knox college by the following announcement by President Thomas McClelland: "The trustees of Knox college have undertaken to raise $250,000 for the further endowment and equipment of the institution. To this sum the general education board of New York has promised $50,000 and Andrew Carnegie another $50,000, provided that the remaining $150,000 is secured within one year from February 15, 1908. Another philanthropist, whose name is withheld for the present, has promised a large contribution toward this contingent sum, and the president and trustees are entering upon the task set them with great assurances that it will be accomplished within the specified time. Of the aggregate sum raised, $50,000 will be used for the erection of a science hall, and the balance, after paying any outstanding indebtedness which may exist at the end of the canvass, will be added to the permanent endowment of the institution."

Elgin.—Frank Slocum, an inmate from Woodstock, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a piece of window glass at the Northern Illinois Insane hospital the other morning. VOLUMES MIGHT BE WRITTEN

Of the Success That Awaits the Farmer in Western Canada.

The story of wheat farming in Western Canada (that portion of Canada lying north of Dakota and Montana) has been frequently told, but it will stand a lot of telling, and still retain its touch of interest. During the year just closed 277,376 persons made their homes in Canada as compared with 215,912 for the year 1906, an increase of 61,464. Those from the United States numbered 58,551. A writer in "Industry" recently said: "To-day the 'Dominion of Canada is witnessing a 'mighty movement of population 'than ever stimulated a Biblical writer to pen a chapter of Scripture.' The same writer says: 'From the Rhine and the Rhone river valleys; from the port cities of Germany and the 'farms of the Fatherland, from the 'peasant soil of Russia; and out from 'the grimy Lancashire and overpopulated Yorkshire, the discontented and ambitious of every clime are seeking to take advantage of the 'opportunities afforded by the fertile 'soil and exhilarating climate of the 'Empire of the North.'"

Continuing the same writer says: "While a million human beings through 'the shores of the United States every year, the smaller number arriving in 'Canada come with a more well-defined purpose.' The question has been asked why do these people come to Canada? The available land between the Mississippi and the Pacific has been exhausted, and the farmers within that territory find that their sons have to seek newer climes. Canada offers one hundred and sixty acres of land free to each. This land yields from 20 to 40 bushels of wheat to the acre. In Southern Alberta, the winter wheat belt of Canada, as high as 60 bushels per acre have been harvested. Less yields than the one mentioned have netted the farmer as much as $35 per acre. There are no words that tell the tale so effectively as those of the farmer himself, the man who has ploughed the fields, sowed the grain, and with folded hands rests while nature, bounteous in that country, in less than three months, placed at his disposal hundreds of acres of ripened grain, now waiting the arrival of the reaper, and therefore we reproduce the following letter.

Any agent of the Canadian government will be pleased to give information regarding the district mentioned or any of any other that may be desired.

E. T. Holmes, Esq., Canadian Government Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Dear Sir:—

In 1905 I located on a claim about 30 miles from the town of Wadena, on the Canadian Northern Railroad, have lived on my claim most of the time since. I consider this to be one of the best districts in the country for grain growing. In 1906 wheat averaged from 30 to 51 bushels per acre on some of my neighbors' farms, within 4 miles of my claim. Oats go from 75 to 100 bushels. It is also a good country for stock. Where I am there is plenty of fuel. Homesteads nearly all taken the settlement being largely Germans, and Americans, all well-to-do. I left Wadena in February, 1907, returning April 25, so that I missed part of the winter, which the old settlers tell me was one of the worst they ever saw, but there was no suffering, as the people are pretty well fixed, and there are no blizzards in that country, at least there never has been known to be one. Wild land sells at from $10 to $15; closer to town it is higher.

In the summer we have all sorts of wild fruits very plentiful, and I never saw better vegetables, and game is so plentiful a man need not starve for want of something to eat. Plenty of good water too. You need not hesitate to recommend this district, but the homesteads are nearly all taken, most of the homesteaders are living right on their claims.

(Signed), FRANK MORREY, Kelvington, Sask.

Laundry work at home would be much more satisfactory if the right starch were used. In order to get the desired stiffness, it is usually necessary to use so much starch that the beauty and fineness of the fabric is hidden behind a paste of varying thickness, which not only destroys the appearance, but also affects the wearing quality of the goods. This trouble can be entirely overcome by using Defiance Starch, as it can be applied much more thinly because of its greater strength than other makes.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The investigation now going on of the State institutions is not helping the nomination of Governor Charles S. Deneen.

If the Wizard Edison has really perfected a storage battery which will do away with the use of gasoline in automobiles there will be rejoicing among ordinary people who have to use the highways—also among the polecats.

The indications in certain political circles in Chicago are that the avowed candidates for Governor will give up their political ambitions and unite on former Governor Yates. They figure that with so many candidates in the field Deneen would be sure to win, and it is anything to beat Deneen.

There occurred recently in Washington a memorial service to a Roman Catholic priest, the late Father D. J. Stanford, in which the principal speakers were Rev. Van Schaik, of the German Reformed Church, the President's pastor, the Rev. Abram Simon, Rabbi of the Jewish Synagogue, "Corporal" Tanner, a non-Catholic and Senator Beveridge, also a non-Catholic, besides a Catholic priest, the assistant of the deceased clergyman. Truly the era of Christian charity and true brotherly love is at hand when leading men of all denominations thus gather to do honor to a simple Roman priest.

The President, at the suggestion of William Dudley Foulke, has written a letter which completely refutes the charges bandied about in anti-administration circles that he has used federal patronage to promote the nomination of Secretary Taft. In his opening paragraph, Mr. Roosevelt says that the charges are not only "false and malicious," but that is "the kind of accusation which for the next few months will be rife" and that "when this particular slander is exploded those who have used it will promptly invent another." For that reason, while yielding to Mr. Foulke's request that he write the letter, Mr. Roosevelt seriously questions the advisability of so doing, and he is right.

Cuba must do everything necessary to make her cities sanitary. This is the decision of the President, Secretary Root and Secretary Taft. The issue grew out of a contract for sewerage and paving the city of Havana which the Cubans wish to repudiate because of the expense, but the administration in Washington has decided that the terms of the contract must be carried out. For a time there will doubtless be much muttering and discontent in Cuba particularly in Havana, but we venture the prediction that no one will be more grateful to the administration, once the work is done, than the people who will complain most loudly now. The history of the American occupation of foreign lands has been a history of cleanliness. Americans have cleaned Manila and made it a healthful, beautiful city; and the protests of the people have turned to praise. Americans have changed the Panama Canal Zone and the chief cities of Panama from pest-holes to healthful, cleanly cities and Panama is reaping a rich reward. The absolute sanitation of Cuba will make for the wealth and prosperity of the Republic, and the money so expended will be returned tenfold.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel your stomach is not in good order, that the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural, digestant that will do the work the digestant juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by J. H. Swan.

Life of Earthworms. Scientists have come to the conclusion that earthworms frequently live to an age of eight or ten years.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. What's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptly may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 50 boxes for the pocket, also in 250 boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

World's Largest Book.

There lies in the British Museum the largest book yet printed, a colossal atlas of engraved ancient Dutch maps. It takes three men to move it from the giant bookcase in which it is stored in the library of the museum. It is bound in leather, magnificently decorated and is fastened with clasps of solid silver, richly gilt. It is nearly seven feet high and weighs 800 pounds and was presented to King Charles II. before he left Holland in the year 1660.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountain shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by J. H. Swan.

An Ideal of Duty.

To lose faith in men, not in humanity; to see justice go down and not believe in the triumph of injustice; for every wrong that you weakly deal another or another deals you, to love more and more the fairness and beauty of what is right; and so to turn with ever-increasing love from the imperfection that is in us all to the perfection that is above us all—the perfection that is God.—James Lane Allen, "The Choir Invisible."

The trouble with most cough remedies is that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently but promptly on the bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Nation of Pie Eaters.

We are a nation of pie eaters. The pie is a national institution, almost a part of the national constitution. The great American pie belt grows wider every year. In Havre and Marseilles, France, one can see the neat printed phrase: "Pie Americaine," and on the carte du jour of the Mena hotel, just under the shadow of the Sphinx, the homely entry: "Pie de Pomplon a la New York."

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Bolting Water.

Water that has once been heated, or that has stood any length of time in the kettle, cannot be made to boil as quickly as freshly drawn cold water. If this fact were fully appreciated, it would have more weight with housekeepers as an argument against using water that has stood over night than numerous homilies on the unhealthfulness of stale water.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contains no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by J. H. Swan.

A Golden Rule.

In reflections on the absent, go no farther than you would go if they were present. "I resolve," says Bishop Beveridge, "never to speak of a man's virtues before his face, nor of his faults behind his back." A golden rule, the observation of which would at one stroke banish from the earth flattery and defamation.

On Lending Books.

"Why is it, I wonder," mused the woman philosopher, "that people always resent it when you ask them to return a borrowed book within any period shorter than a year? I would rather lend money than a book, for there is some chance of getting that back, but you might as well give a book to the average person as to go through the form of lending it."

Demonstrated by Experience.

"Experience has fully demonstrated," says the Alfalfa Sage, in the Kansas City Star, "that an American heiress who marries a foreign nobleman" for his title has about the same chance to win happiness that a man has when he hooks up with old John Barleycorn."

WHEN ALBERT PROPOSED

He Tried It at the Wrong Time.

With every desire to be temperate in my language and charitable in my thoughts, truth compels me to the statement that Nellie Putlow's youngest brother—Albert Sidney Putlow—is a boy who will one of these days come to a bad end.

To know Albert Sidney—to know him thoroughly—is an education in juvenile depravity, a lesson in tabloided fiendishness. He's right enough superficially, mild you, but when you get at the soul of the boy your faith in the innocence and harmlessness of juvenility generally is gone forever. It was last Christmas eve when I probed the depths of Master Putlow. I'll tell you in what circumstances.

For very good reasons I wished to secure freedom from Albert Sidney's attentions on the evening in question. I felt, somehow, that the task of asking his sister Nellie a certain little question would not be made easier in any way by having her young brother buzzing around offering to regulate my watch or exhibiting some homemade marvel in the clockwork mouse line. Master Putlow, I may tell you, is a prodigy in a mechanical direction. When other small boys are learning to play football he is fiddling about with spur wheels; when they are dreaming of getting their international caps Albert Sidney's sleep is punctuated with visions of cogs, ratchets and perpetual motion.

"I'll have none of him," thought I and during the afternoon I sent around with my best wishes for a happy Christmas, a book calculated to keep any other nine-year-old boy as quiet as an oyster till each of his 240 pages had been dog's eared as black as coal.

In the evening I called round. Nellie's father and mother were, as I expected, out on a Santa Claus excursion to their married daughter's. "Albert's at his book, I suppose?" I remarked, when I was asked into the front parlor.

"No," said Nellie; "he's doing something to a Waterbury watch in the back. Been busy all day. Look here," pointing to an old-fashioned clock fixed to the wall. "He unearthed that from the lumber room three days ago. It hasn't been going for ten years and he's cleaned it, put it in order, and fixed it up as a surprise for dad. It's going splendidly."

Of course I didn't mind a little bit about the book not claiming the boy's attention. So long as he was occupied elsewhere I was perfectly satisfied. We talked about nothing in particular for five minutes, then I braced myself up for the ordeal. Nellie was in the rocker and I was on the saddlebag lounge by her side. It was then or never.

"Nellie," I whispered, glancing at my cuff, on which I had pencilled my headings. "Nellie, I have long—"

"Whirr!" She looked up, not at me, but at the clock. "It's going to strike," she said. "Bang!" The thing had a note like Big Ben.

"I have long—"
"Bang!" "Better jump in at the intervals," thought I, for anybody would have needed a megaphone to make himself heard above that din—"long felt that life—"

"Bang!" "Isn't it splendid?" Nellie smiled. I decided to wait till the awful thing had finished. "Bang! bang! bang! bang! bang!" At the eighth stroke I gave a sigh of relief and started again. "I have long—"

"Bang!" "That's too many," said Nellie. "What are you saying?"
"Bang!"
"Bang!"

I was losing patience with that lumber-room find. It occasioned me no surprise that the clock was somewhat erratic after master Putlow's attentions, but that it should seize just that particular time to exhibit its vagaries annoyed me. "Never mind," I thought, "it can't strike more than 12."

I had altogether underestimated its capabilities. When I had counted 27 whirrs and bongs, Nellie started laughing. I walked to the door and called to Albert Sidney.

He came, bringing an odor of clock oil into the room. "Something's the matter with that clock's striking gear," I said, with forced calmness.

"Been striking long?" he asked. "That's the 39th time," I answered as another "Bang!" set all the mantel-shelf ornaments dancing.

Albert Sidney whistled. "Thought it might go like that," he grinned. "Good clocks often do. It hasn't struck for ten years, you see, and now it won't stop till it's done all its back striking."

Great Jupiter! A lightning calculation told me that, roughly speaking, 560,000 bongs were overdue. At four to the minute it would be some time in April before that awful clock was up-to-date.

"I—I think I'll be going," I gasped, deciding on a postponement, and on the 78th stroke, I shook hands with Nellie, glared murder at her brother, and hurried off.

At the bottom of the steps I stopped to shake my fist in the mechanical prodigy's direction. "You horrid boy!" I heard Nellie say.

A howl came from Albert Sidney. "You're as big a chump as he was to take in that tale about that thing workin' off its back strikes," he said; "I only fixed it to go like that for a jerk. There! I've stopped it now. Go and call him back if you want him." I fled. The prospect of Master Putlow as a brother-in-law was too awful.

FOR A YOUNG GIRL

PRETTY FROCK MADE UP IN PALE BLUE VOILE.

Good Thing to Bear in Mind When Replenishing Daughter's Wardrobe—Hints on Proper Outfit for Student Days.

At this season of the year it is often necessary to replenish the schoolgirl's wardrobe. The frocks provided in the autumn, if not worn out, are, in any event, showing the effects of constant usage, and, indeed, with the constant hard wear to which a schoolgirl's clothes are subjected—it is remarkable and often quite distressing what ravages are made in the wardrobe in the course of a few months. The schoolgirl does not wish to be burdened with a great number of frocks. To keep them in order is a great nuisance unless she has a personal maid. Besides this, for a girl away at school a large wardrobe is not convenient. Her clothes space is apt to be limited. There are very few schools where an unlimited amount of closet room is assigned to each girl. Consequently, the schoolgirl's wardrobe is as condensed as is compatible with the proper provision of clothes for all occasions. Each article in her outfit should be in perfect order and in full working condition. She has no room for garments, which are rendered temporarily useless either because they are slightly out of repair or because they are unseasonable. All these things must be weeded out of her wardrobe at regular intervals and their place supplied by ready to wear garments of everyday usefulness.

While the schoolgirl should not take a violent interest in clothes, it is impossible and indeed unwise to seek to make her utterly indifferent to her appearance. Even during school hours she should have a proper pride in looking well. Otherwise she may fall into careless habits, which will be even more distressing and more difficult to correct in her after life than a disproportionate sense of the importance of clothes. On the other hand, with certain kinds of natures the consciousness of not being well or becomingly dressed creates a painful feeling of distrust which renders the girl most unhappy and destroys all her pleasure in her association with her young friends.

A very attractive costume illustrated is of pale blue voile. The skirt is finished with two rows of three tucks each around the bottom and two rows of flat net insertion embroidered in blue to match the material of the frock. The waist is on the bebe model, with a full tucked gulf of blue liberty satin. This is finished with a round neck bordered simply with the embroidered net.

Cosmetic Ball for Wrinkles.

In France they have a way of plumping out thin cheeks which may be tried with excellent effects. A cosmetic ball is fastened to the end of a stick. The ball is made of a lump of cold cream, covered lightly with cheesecloth. The ball of cream is lightly spatted on the face until the skin becomes moist and soft. This friction is excellent for the cuticle.

Then there is the massage with the finger tips to rub the cream in, and last of all the dash of hot water. Hot water should be used at night and never in the morning. The skin is tender after the hot water bath, the massage and steaming and should be rested for at least an hour after the treatment.

Make a Waist Form.

Fit a lining of unbleached muslin to your figure over the corset. Let it extend below the hips. When snugly fitted and firmly stitched tack the lower edge to a board, cut the shape of the body around the hips. Then fill the lining with fine cork, obtainable at any grocer's or fruit dealer's. Fill the lining full. Sew on a buckram collar, cut to fit the neck. Fit cardboard pieces to armholes or cut sleeves and fill as preferred. Do this before you start to fill.

A paper pattern for the board may be obtained by bending a wire around the figure below the hips. Fasten the ends, slip over the head. Mark the oval on paper and cut out. For a little work and less expense you have a model of your own figure which will prove a blessing for fitting pur-

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

HOME-MADE DRESSING TABLE. Effective Drapery to Cover Up Simple Contrivance.

To demonstrate the beauty of drapery was a clever little dressing table simply made and something which could easily be made at home. The table or leaf portion was a board fitted closely to the wall with brackets at each end. It was rounded in front, giving the half oval appearance. This top was padded slightly and covered with a soft white denim. Back of it the wall was covered with pale-green silkateen on which rested a long, narrow mirror, the frame made white with white varnish paint. Over this was neatly draped a canopy of moderately dark-green silkateen, showing small rosebuds. The cover was draped at the top and sides. Around the stand portion was a pretty flounce or deep ruffle of the same flowered material, which was hung on pink crocheted rings. It was divided in the center front and a few waists could be hung on the screw eyes fastened beneath the shelf portion. The only difficulty one would meet in making this bit of ornamental furniture would be in securely fastening the shelf to the wall. The man of the house or a carpenter could soon do the work.

IDEAS FOR JAPANESE TEA. New Form of Entertainment Can Be Made Very Enjoyable.

The invitations to a Japanese tea received by some out-of-town folk recently were undecipherable until some one thought to hold them in front of a mirror, and then they proved to have been written backward.

The guests were asked to wear kimonos, and some of the toilets were works of art.

One of the most striking had a yellow skirt embroidered around the bottom with a dragon design done in coarse black rope floss.

Over it was worn a black kimono applique with dragons and birds cut out of yellow cloth and pasted on. The kimono had yellow facings and the sash was black.

The rooms in which the guests were received were lighted with Japanese lanterns, which were strung from corner to corner of the apartment and festooned in the center of the ceiling with one large lantern. The refreshments consisted of rice served with chopsticks, oriental preserves, rice cakes, tea, etc.

Mr. Barnes, American

A Sequel to

"That Frenchman," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, Dodd Mead & Co., N. Y.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, or, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paolla, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves, Enid Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He employs an American detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of securing the safety of the women Barnes arranges to have Lady Chartis lease a secluded villa at Nice to which the party is to be taken in a yacht. Suspicion is created that Marina is in league with the Corsicans. A man, believed to be Corregio Danella, is seen passing the house and Marina is thought to have given him a sign. Marina refuses to explain to Barnes which adds to his latent suspicions. Barnes plans for the safety of the party are learned by the Corsicans. The carriage carrying the party to the local landing is followed by two men. One of the horsemen is supposed to be Corregio. They try to murder the American. The cook on the yacht—a Frenchman—is suspected of complicity in the plot. The yacht party anchored at St. Tropez. The cook is detected giving signals to the boat. Barnes attempts to throw him overboard, but is prevented by Marina and Enid. The cook is found to be innocent. The party arrive at Nice and find Lady Chartis and her daughter Maud domiciled in the villa rented with Barnes' money. Barnes is amazed to find that Count Corregio is at Nice and is acting the role of admirer to Lady Chartis.

BOOK TWO.

CHAPTER VII.

Maud's Confidences.

Miss Chartis pursues him along the walk between the citron and the orange trees, asking affrightedly: "Why do you look so terrible?"

For Barnes is meditating sardonically: "If it were only the scar-faced devil, I'd kill him on sight as I would a rattlesnake. But this one who has turned up here, the real Corregio Cipriano Danella, what has he done to me that I can at present justly destroy him? Neither Emory nor myself, from the signature on his check, could say he wrote those letters. If he did, the dastard threat against my coming bride would make me send him to the devil in very short order. But I must have proof."

A moment later her mother sweeps affably down to him. During Barnes' perusal of Emory's letters and enjoyment of Maud's confidences, Prunella has made a toilette that seems more elaborate than would be called forth by the arrival of relatives.

"What, back again so soon?" says the widow, pleasantly, leading Barnes to her parlor.

"Yes," observes that gentleman, "I forgot to mention that the reason you could treat us en famille is that to-morrow I am about to wed."

"Enid!" screams the lady. "Oh, you darling boy!" and gives him a sudden, whole-souled kiss. After a moment she says deprecatingly: "This sudden wedding will not permit of a grand wedding." Then, her eyes growing excited at the thought of social success, she exclaims: "Of course, the town is growing deserted, but Adelaide Carrington at the De la Mediterranee, Milly Portman at the De Rome and Lilly Vivian at the Hotel des Anglaises, are three charming English girls who will be delightful bridesmaids for Enid. Besides, Edwin could invite the officers of her majesty's Opal, which is lying off Monte Carlo. Oh, it shall be the most important wedding this season in the Riviera."

"It is the most important wedding to me," remarks Barnes, solemnly, "but it will be the most private one. Enid and I are only anxious to be wed. I must beg you to say nothing about this to anyone." The gentleman's tone is deterrent but imperative. "To-night I shall drive into Nice and see the pastor of the English church. Here in this parlor, to-morrow evening, he shall say, by the blessing of God, the words that will make my darling mine."

"Oh, of course, if you so desire it," Burton answers Prunella, affably. "I suppose Enid thinks she can manage some kind of a wedding gown by to-morrow evening."

"Anyway, that's the time," observes Barnes, quietly. All the while he is studying Lady Chartis, wondering if her appearance has attracted Corregio Cipriano Danella, or whether the Corsican has in some subtle way learned this is the retreat of the pursued, and is here on account of family vengeance.

"There is slight possibility that a man of 35 can be attracted by cosmetics," muses the American. Then he suddenly asks: "Has anyone called here for me?"

"Nobody, I believe. The only person I observed in Nice who knew you was la Belle—"

Lady Chartis' cheeks glow with modest blushes of an English widow as she checks herself in the mentioning the awful Blackwood. Barnes blushes also. When a man of the world is about to wed youth and purity, the follies of his wilder youth seem shameful things. So he cuts off this mention of the great American adventures by saying shortly: "Mr. Emory, my agent, has not been for me yet?"

"Why, no, I haven't heard of Emory since we left Marseilles," remarks his hostess.

"Ask your servants, please. This matter is important."

Lady Chartis goes out and after a few minutes returns and says that she has questioned everyone in the house and they all assert that nobody since their arrival at the villa had called and asked for Mr. Barnes. "But if you don't bring your party on shore," prattles Prunella, "they'll be late for dinner, and—my goodness! I had forgotten—I have an engagement in Nice this evening, so I'll have to be leaving immediately after."

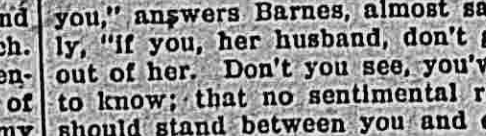

The additional tint upon the lady's cheeks shows that it is a love tryst.

"All right, I've got to see that minister," replies Barnes, easily, "so, if you'll be so good, you can drive me in to Nice. Now I'll get our party on shore." He lights a cigar and strolls rapidly down to the little landing place between flex trees and oleanders, the thoughts of his coming nuptials raising his spirits.

"Since the new Danella is here, I'm glad to know it," he thinks. "A discovered danger is better than a hidden one. Who the deuce is that scar-faced scoundrel?"

Emory was to be here by the 4th—this very day. It's nearly expired and no signs of the detective, a man that Barnes knows is prompt in his appointments. "What can this mean?"

This is his reflection as he is in the boat being rowed alongside of the Wildfowl, for Edwin has had the yacht warped tolerably close to the landing stage, and the little pleasure vessel, looking like a slovenly merchant keeps careful lookout all night about the grounds."

"You've told them I'll reward them liberally?" remarks Barnes.

"Oh, it didn't require money, Graham and the rest of the crew have kind of got it into their heads that we are being pursued by some murdering foreign gang and the honest fellows from the land o' cakes are mighty eager to meet the Corsican thugs."

Here Enid stops the interview. "Are we never going on shore to dinner?" asks that young lady, hungrily, but laughingly, as she steps lightly on deck. "I heard your boat, Burton," she adds. "Please help me down the side ladder. Marina has Edwin's sailor skill to prevent her tumbling into the water. My, isn't he tender to her!"

This last is whispered as Mrs. Anstruther, having come on deck, is half carried by her husband down the yacht's side to the cutter.

"Guess I can do the ladder act as well as he," and Burton's clutch upon his coming bride as he places her in the stern sheets of the boat is as fervid as that of the English bridegroom.

As the boat draws up to the landing stage Maud comes rushing down to the landing and cries eagerly: "Bully! Everybody on shore quick! Ma's got to drive into Nice after dinner to meet her new beau."

"Her new beau! How about Von Bulow?" laughs Edwin, as he assists the ladies to the landing stage.

"Oh, Von's on the back shelf!" cries Maud, letting her tongue run away with her. "Count Corregio Cipriano Danella is now first favorite."

At the name, Marina quivers as if under a blow. Then suddenly the nervous dread seems to leave her dark eyes and the courage of devoted love flares into them. She starts from her husband's arm, to which she has been clinging.

"By heaven, Marina knows this Cipriano Danella is the real king-pin of this death feud," is Barnes' astute reflection. He notes that the bride's head is held on high; that this delicate creature steps lightly but resolutely in front of her stalwart sailor husband as if to meet and shield him from coming danger. Her impassioned eyes frighten the American. "My Lord," he shudders, "this devoted girl means to sacrifice herself in some way for this husband she adores. How! Eternal powers, I must find what that letter said!"

But Enid and Maud, as they step up the path, are now joking and laughing; the latter is saying she's such a good little girl she's to come in to desert. "Keep your nuts and raisins for me, every one of you," she entreats.

At this, Marina smiles so blithely that Edwin whispers to Barnes: "Getting ashore makes her normal again."

Then after a few words of caution to Graham and his tars, who tie up the cutter and step ashore to patrol the outside of the grounds till morning, Anstruther follows the rest of the party to the house.

A few minutes after, the ladies already dressed for evening on the yacht, have thrown off their wraps and are seated at the dinner table of Lady Chartis which, influenced by Mr. Barnes' liberal purse, has become a luxurious one.

The attempt at youth in their hostess' appearance seems so blithely the marvelous effects of Madame Duval's art upon her ancient subject's face and can scarce restrain a merry snicker.

Marina, despite the conflicting emotions in her heart, smiles almost sadly, and proceeds during the progress of the meal to draw from Lady Chartis information of her new cavalier and how Cipriano Danella came to visit her. "Did his brother's recent death affect him greatly?" asks the young bride, eagerly.

"Oh," remarks Prunella, "when he begged to be presented to me in Marseilles, the count was very sad, but—" "Cipriano met you in Marseilles," ejaculates Barnes, his fork stayed in air over his salad.

MOOSE ATTACKS A HORSE.

And the Horse Retorts in Kind—An Incident of the Maine Woods.

Three young men from Milltown, near Calais, went out into the country districts recently to pass the day and left their old horse standing under the shade of the whispering pines while they communed with nature some little distance away, according to the Kennebec Journal.

They were startled by the neighing and snorting of their steed and upon reaching the spot where the animal was tied they witnessed an exciting encounter between a bull moose and the horse. The monarch of the forest just happened along and found the horse encroaching upon his domain and very naturally resented the intrusion. He made a run for the unfortunate steed and a bow-on collision was almost a sure thing, when the old horse's fighting blood got up and, instead of waiting to be rammed like a fishing boat in a fog, he stood up on his hind legs and caught the bull moose a swat fair upon the nose with both forefeet. Both animals sat down suddenly to think the matter over, the moose from the surprise of the shock, and the horse because he lost his balance, and it would doubtless have gone hard with the latter, which was incumbered with the harness and rigging, had not the young men set upon the forest king with yells just as he was about to resume the attack upon his helpless adversary. Any one who remembers the noise which a Milltown man is capable of making when out for a good time will pardon the moose for his sudden and undignified retreat.

Reports Amount to Veritable War Scare in St. Petersburg—Foreign Ambassadors Expect No Conflict.

Tiflis.—Reports have been received here from Armenia that all the Redas, or Turkish army reserve forces, in Van, Mush and the other vilayets of Asia Minor have been called to the colors and are proceeding rapidly for the frontier. At the same time a league of all the Turkish revolutionary parties is increasing the revolutionary agitation. Appeals and proclamations are being issued exhorting the population to protest in every way possible against the warlike plans of the sultan. St. Petersburg.—The alarmist reports of the possibilities of hostilities between Russia and Turkey, which have permeated all strata of Russian society, have assumed the proportions of a veritable war scare, to which the sensational press is devoting its biggest headlines.

The situation is taken seriously, not only in military circles but also by conservative politicians. M. Guchkov, the leader of the majority in the duma, announced his intention Monday night of raising at the next meeting of the commission of national defense the question of the nation's readiness for war. This, he believes, is of the most vital importance, in view of the news from the Caucasus and all parts of Europe.

The ambassadors of five of the leading powers, when interviewed Monday considered hostilities as being almost out of the question. Their opinion is that the Turkish mobilization in Asia Minor and the warlike preparations in Russia are parts in the "gigantic game of bluff," which neither side will be able to carry to a finish on account of the lack of sinews of war.

HOTEL KEEPER SHOTS TWO.

Well-Known Residents of Kansas City Seriously Wounded.

Kansas City, Mo.—James P. Hayes, agent of the Traders' Dispatch, with offices in the board of trade building in this city, and John O'Donnell, a well-known wholesale and retail cigar dealer, were shot and seriously wounded by J. D. Cosby, proprietor of the Cosby hotel, in the office of the hotel Monday night.

Hayes and O'Donnell called at the hotel to see two men they believed were stopping there as guests. When told by the clerk, William Murray, that the two men they sought had left the hotel, they accused Murray of misrepresentation and assaulted him.

As Cosby entered the office Hayes attempted to assault him, and Cosby drew a pistol and shot both Hayes and O'Donnell. Cosby says he did not intend to shoot O'Donnell and did not realize that he had done so until he saw him fall.

SAYS WE BLEW UP THE MAINE.

Havana Paper Asserts War Department Ordered the Disaster.

Havana.—The Diario Español, the organ of the ultra-Spanish element, in a leading editorial Monday referring to the celebration by Americans of the tenth anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine, says: "They commemorate the blackest blot on American history, the world, including honest Americans, believing that the ship was blown up by direct orders from the war department for the purpose of justification in the plan to despoil Spain of Cuba."

NO VERDICT IN SNELL CASE.

Jury is Discharged, Being Unable to Reach Agreement.

Clinton, Ill.—The jury in the Snell $2,000,000 will case was discharged by Judge Cochran late Monday, being unable to reach a verdict. Richard Snell, the contestant, announces that he will ask a new trial of the case at the May term of court.

The last ballot stood eight for the contestant to four for the proponents of the will.

For Lincoln Memorial Hall.

Washington.—Mr. Madden of Illinois introduced a bill Monday appropriating $100,000 to be paid to the Lincoln Farm association to build on the Lincoln birthplace farm in Kentucky a national patriotic shrine which shall consist of a memorial hall, costing not more than $250,000, of which sum $150,000 shall be paid by the association. According to the bill the hall is to protect "the humble log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born and all such other relics as tell the story of yemany life out of which Lincoln came."

Miners Buried; May Be Saved.

Pottsville, Pa.—Twenty-eight miners were imprisoned in the Midvale colliery near Mount Carmel Monday morning by the breaking of a dam which had formed in a drift, which caused a rush of mud into a gangway where the men were at work. All day long a party of rescuers endeavored to reach the entombed men and shortly after six o'clock they were encouraged by sounds of digging on the inside. Later a shot was heard, indicating that the men were actively at work to effect their own rescue.

Special Correspondent Writes of Things of Interest at the State Capital.

Springfield.—In the McEwen-Lipseys habens corpus case the supreme court entered a number of orders. One of them denied the motion of Ralph Lipsey to intervene, the court holding he was now in the case. In another order the court made a rule on Judge McEwen to file his return within a few days without prejudice to his right to set up whether the writ of habeas corpus to bring Lipsey into court was rightfully issued or not, and requiring both he and Lipsey to file briefs on that day. Another order is on Attorney General Stead directing him to file briefs in 1907, to Judge McEwen's, and the case was set for oral argument at the foot of the docket, the call of which has closed.

Florists' Meeting of Interest.

With Illinois the first state in the union in horticulture, the coming convention of the Illinois State Florists' association, which was held in this city possessed more than passing interest. Prominent florists and horticulturists from all parts of the state made addresses. Since the preparation of the last United States census report of 1907, the area covered with glass has practically been doubled and the same per cent. of increase has taken place in amount of capital invested and in retail value of products as shown by the following table. The figures for 1900 are from the United States census reports and those for 1907 from data collected by the Illinois experiment station:

	1900.	1907.
Land area covered with glass, square feet.....	8,744,000	16,613,263
Investment value.....	$4,648,056	$5,831,395
Retail value of prod-ucts.....	3,055,600	5,880,500

The land area reduced to acres would give 381 acres covered with greenhouses. One hundred and thirty-three thousand tons of coal are required to heat this vast amount of glass. According to the crop statistics of the state board of agriculture for the last 11 years, the average value of the fruit produced in Illinois is $1,694,000 or $200,000 less than the United States census figures for the wholesale value of the florists' products in 1900. As given above, the retail value of the products is much more, according to the same authority.

An apt illustration of the immense growth of the business is shown by figures taken from Sangamon county alone in which there were 184,000 square feet under glass in 1900 while now the area is fully 500,000 square feet.

Extend Wells' Leave.

In an order issued by Adj. Gen. Thomas W. Scott the leave of absence granted some time ago to Brig. Gen. Frank P. Wells of Decatur, commander of the Second brigade, was extended to March 10, 1908. The resignation of Second Lieut. J. Alvin McLain, Company K, Third Infantry, Rockford, Ill., was accepted. Lieut. Col. William F. Lawrie of the Sixth Infantry, Sterling, was appointed a member of the examining board of that contingent. An election for first lieutenant took place in Company I, Sixth Infantry, Morrison. Capt. A. H. Foldman, Sixth Infantry, presided.

Busy for Eight Years.

Rev. William A. Sunday, now conducting evangelistic work in Illinois, has his time engaged for 18 months and has enough offers to keep him busy for the next eight years. A delegation of Lincoln pastors who sought services for a revival in the Logan capital were informed that the city would be able to reach that city within Billings Denounces Solons.

The Illinois state legislature was denounced sharply by Dr. Frank G. Billings, chairman of the state board of charities. The condemnation of the body's action came while Billings was testifying before the house committee which is investigating the charitable institutions of the state. He declared the law makers have been a stumbling block in the way of medical science by their "middle-age prejudice against science." Representative John P. McGorty, president at the session of the committee and Mr. Billings' testimony and statements proved the feature of the day's proceedings. While telling of the alleged abuses of the inmates of the state homes, Mr. Billings laid bare his mind in the plainest of terms. The reference was as follows:

The institutions of Illinois ought to be rehabilitated, provided with laboratories and open to clinics. The clinics should include observations at all times of the habits and action of all inmates by medical men. Records of these cases ought to be carefully prepared for medical societies.

After death, upon the consent of relatives, the bodies of patients ought to be subject to autopsy. This method would furnish valuable data to science and advance the interests of humanity. In the study of insanity, no records are now kept of clinics held because the legislature adopted a resolution prohibiting the latter.

If clinics were held the constant presence of medical men in the asylums would prevent the abuses. The doctors there would be scientific investigators as well as humanitarian watchers of the inmates. No abuses occur in the Cook county hospital and other institutions where medical internes reside.

Cannon Leaders Are Busy.

Friends of "Uncle Joe" Cannon are busy trying to keep the speaker from becoming entangled in the liquor and anti-liquor fight that is involving many districts in the state. They fear that it might prove to be a case of "tangle-foot" which would cause even "Uncle Joe's" candidacy to reel. This, it developed in Chicago is the reason that the Cannon leaders have delayed saying whether they wanted a "Cannon love feast" at Springfield in connection with the state convention which is to elect Cannon delegates-at-large and endorse the speaker for the presidential nomination in June.

If the issue seems likely to subside and remain quiescent between now and March 6, the probable date for holding the convention, the managers of the speaker's campaign probably will decide that a "love feast" will be desirable.

Results of Farmers' Election.

The annual election of directors of the State Farmers' Institute at Peoria from the odd numbered congressional districts resulted as follows:

First District—C. P. Reynolds, Chicago.
Third District—M. K. Sweet, Chicago.
Fifth District—John M. Houseman, Chicago.
Seventh District—Charles W. Farr, Chicago.
Ninth District—J. F. Rehm, Chicago.
Eleventh District—J. P. Maxon, Elgin.
Thirteenth District—A. W. Abbott, Morrison.
Fifteenth District—S. N. Black, Clayton.
Seventeenth District—S. B. Mason, Bloomington.
Nineteenth District—J. B. Burrows, Decatur.
Twenty-First District—Edward Grimes, Rockford.
Twenty-Third District—A. V. Schermhorn, Kimmunity.
Twenty-Fifth District—W. E. Braden, Cutler.

Illinois Committee Meets.

The Republican state committee met in Springfield to select the date for the state convention, which will choose delegates and alternates to the Chicago convention and candidate for presidential electors. If the state convention is not held on or before March 26, it was the general idea that the date would be postponed until after April 15, because a majority of the city and village elections in the state outside of Chicago are held on the third Tuesday in April. It was the understanding that there would be no opposition whatever to instructions from Illinois for Speaker Cannon. The Cannon lieutenants wanted the state convention held early.

Observe Lincoln's Birth.

The observance of Lincoln's birthday in Illinois was more general in character than ever before in the history of the state. For the first time the day was marked by the closing at noon of retail stores in numerous lines of trade. Formal observance of the day was made by many organizations. The annual banquet of the Sangamo club was held at the Illinois Country club in Springfield. As usual this was a big social event.

Governor Has Primary Law.

With the words "Signed under protest" written beneath the name of Speaker Edward D. Shurtliff the new primary bill enacted by the Forty-fifth general assembly went into the hands of Gov. Deneen. The executive was prepared to attach his signature to the measure. Attorney General had scrutinized the bill, looking through it for possible flaws before Governor signed it. Particular attention was given to the signing of the reason that the gov-

AS IN WASHINGTON'S DAY

Fraunce's Tavern Restored to Its Old-Time Aspect

WASHINGTON might recognize the exterior of Fraunce's Tavern should he ride down Broad street, New York, in these days, but once inside there would be a number of details which would be novel to him. As he entered the "Colonial" hall he would see waiters in modern bob-tailed evening coats flitting about earning honest tips. Instead of being permitted to climb the stairs to the "Long Room," where he bade farewell to his officers after the close of the revolution, he might be invited to go up in an elevator. Passing the "tap room" on his way to the elevator, possibly he would be urged to try a cigar, "best Virginia leaf." His eyes, accustomed to guttering candles, would be astonished at the steady glow of electric lights, and, doubtless, he would want to know more about the way in which Franklin's lightning could be secured on a clear day for use in lighting. His quick ear would detect the click of the typewriter as he stepped through the passage toward the "Long Room," although he might not recognize the origin of the peculiar noise, and he would be mystified at the spectacle of a man talking into a telephone receiver.

Fraunce's Tavern, "the oldest landmark" in New York city, comes into the public eye now more because on December 4, 1907, the 124th anniversary of Washington's farewell to his officers in the big dining room of the old inn, the restored building was formally turned over by the committee having the restoration in charge to the owners, the Sons of the Revolution, and two tablets were unveiled. The reception to the guests was held in the hall of the Chamber of Commerce after the tablets were unveiled. One of the tablets was attached to the wall of the famous "Long Room," in which Washington's historic and touching farewell to his comrades and assistants occurred, and the other affixed to the exterior.

The history of the building is concisely told on the tablet placed in the "Long Room." It reads:

"Fraunce's Tavern, erected 1719; Queen's Head Tavern, 1762; Chamber of Commerce founded here, 1768; headquarters of Committee of Correspondence of 51, 1774; this room the scene of the farewell of Gen. Washington to his officers, December 4, 1783; Sons of the Revolution reorganized here December 4, 1883; the property purchased by the Sons of the Revolution in the state of New York, 1904; formal occupation taken by the Sons of the Revolution, December 4, 1907."

W. H. Mersereau, the architect who made the restoration, after much investigation of all the evidence drew the design which has been realized in the building as it stands to-day. It is now supposed to look as it appeared when Washington visited it, and all of the bricks and timbers remaining of the building which was known as Fraunce's Tavern are still in the places they then occupied. All of the "improvements" of after years, including the "ginmill" of recent times, have been removed.

The restoration is based on an advertisement printed in 1775 in which Fraunce's offered his inn for sale and described it as "three-stories high with a tile and lead roof, has 14 fire places, a most excellent large kitchen, fine dry cellars, with good and convenient offices, etc." The earliest picture of it is dated 1854. This showed the building as it appeared after its recovery from the damage caused by the "great fire" of 1835. In the same year it was again visited by fire. This time the "Long Room" was burned out, and the wall on the Pearl street side above the second story fell outward. When the building was restored this time it was made five stories high with a flat roof, and, barring the saloon on the ground floor, looked as it did until the recent restoration. Fifteen years ago the building was shored up and, with the exception of the corner piers, the walls of the first story were replaced with plate glass.

When the building was dismantled for restoration the lines of the old roof indicating the top of the walls and the slope and height of the roof were found in the walls. The difference in the bricks in the walls also helped to determine what portion was old and what modern. It will be observed that the wall fronting on Broad street is of thin yellow bricks. These are the same kind as are found in the old Dutch church in Tarrytown. In order to secure an additional supply to fill up the opening on the first floor they had to be made to order in a yard in Holland where bricks of the same size and kind are still made. The bricks on the Pearl street side are red. As they are an inch longer and somewhat thinner than the bricks made to-day it was only by searching through many yards, tape measure in hand, and picking up abnormal bricks that enough could be secured to "piece out" the original wall. By such means the old building was put back into a shape that would probably be recognized by "Black Sam" Fraunce's if he should appear to-day.

The property, which is now used as the headquarters of the Sons of the Revolution in New York, represents an expenditure of nearly $150,000, the restoration alone having cost nearly $60,000. It is looked upon as a memorial of Frederick S. Tallmadge, who was the president of the society, and bequeathed to it a sum sufficient to pay the cost of restoration. The tablet on the outside of the building commemorates his name and contains his portrait, as well as a history of the building.

Washington the Friend of Peace.

The friends of humanity will deprecate war whosoever it may appear. My first wish is to see this plague of mankind banished from the earth and the sons and daughters of this world employed in more pleasing and innocent amusements, than in preparing implements, and exercising them for the destruction of mankind.—Washington.

ECONOMY VS. DECENCY.

Old Hubby—Dear me, Ella! You might have that dress made a little higher in the neck.

Young Wife—I'll have it altered if you like, but this stuff costs three guineas a yard.

Old Hubby—H'm!—well, it doesn't matter.

How It Was Done.

Mother (examining school report)—How did you come to have such good marks in arithmetic this week?

Tommy—Well, you see, it was this way: We had ten examples a day, and I got the teacher to help me to do five, and Eric Jones got her to help him on the other five. Then we swapped helps, see!—Harper's Bazar.

An All-Round Man.

William V. McManus, the new president of the Letter Carriers' association of New York; had been discussing the ideal letter carrier.

With a laugh he ended: "Yes, the ideal letter carrier needs to be as all-round, as many-sided, as divinely gifted, as the man a Cincinnati suburbanite advertised for last month.

"The advertisement ran: 'Wanted—A man able to teach Spanish, water color painting, and the violin, and to look after the bull.'"

Case for an Expert.

"Have you fixed up my will just the way I told you?" asked the sick man, who was the possessor of many needy relatives and some well-to-do grasping ones.

"I have," asserted the lawyer.

"Just as strong and tight as you can make it, eh?" asked the client.

The lawyer nodded.

"All right," said the sick man. "Now I want to ask you one thing—not professionally—who do you think stands the best chance of getting the property when I'm gone?"—Youth's Companion.

Change of Mind.

The tattooing craze was the rage among the smart set at the time of the South African war, it is now the rage in the slums among the humbler classes, especially girls, who pay threepence for the operation.

A tattooer said that this business thrives on love. A girl came into his studio the other day and had "I love Jim Curley" tattooed on her arm.

About half-past five the next morning the girl knocked at his door and on being remonstrated with said: "Don't care if you charge me five shillings. 'Ere, kiver this up," she exclaimed, baring the tattooed arm.

COFFEE DRINKING

A Doctor Says It Weakens the Heart.

"In my opinion," says a well known German physician, "no one can truthfully say that coffee agrees with him, as it has long since been proven that caffeine, contained in coffee, is an injurious, poisonous substance which weakens and degenerates the heart muscles.

"For this reason the regular use of coffee, soon or late, causes a condition of undernourishment, which leads to various kinds of organic disease.

"Convinced of this fact, I have often sought for some healthful beverage to use instead of coffee. At last I found the thing desired in Postum. Having had occasion to forbid people using coffee, whose hearts were affected, I have recommended Postum as a beverage, since it is free from all injurious or exciting substances. I know this from results in my own family, and among patients.

"Hundreds of persons who now use Postum in place of coffee, are greatly benefited thereby." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Mr. Johnson Willing to Give Well-Written Note of Hand.

The financial prospects of Mr. Washington Lafayette Johnson were decidedly clouded, but he still preserved a sanguine spirit, which his friends did not always appreciate.

"I'd like to borrow jes' a little money ob you," said Mr. Johnson, confidentially, to a friend. "I-I wouldn't ax you fo' it, but I ain' got a single cent left in de worl'."

"What security can you gib me?" asked his friend, without any enthusiasm.

BABY CRIED AND SCRATCHED

All the Time—Covered with Torturing Eczema—Doctor Said Sores Would Last for Years—Perfect Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby niece was suffering from that terrible torture, eczema. It was all over her body but the worst was on her face and hands. She cried and scratched all the time and could not sleep night or day from the scratching. I had her under the doctor's care for a year and a half and he seemed to do her no good. I took her to the best doctor in the city and he said that she would have the sores until she was six years old. But if I had depended on the doctor my baby would have lost her mind and died from the want of aid. But I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and she was cured in three months. Alice L. Dowell, 4769 Easton Ave., St. Louis, Mo., May 2 and 20, 1907."

Out of the Usual.

"Guess where I've been," said a man at the noonday lunch counter. "It is a city where in at least two churches they have little cusplods which match the decorations of the church in the corners of the pews. In the vestibule of one of the large churches hangs a sign to this effect: 'No Spitting Allowed Inside the Church. Throw Away Your Tobacco as You Enter the Vestibule.' This a fact. I can prove it!"

Have Right to Admire Beauty.
There are some very pretty women who don't understand the law of the road with regard to handsome faces.
